

Job Description for Work Life Ally

Basic Function: To build a reciprocal relationship with Work Life participants as they strive to live in harmony with God, self, others, and creation. In particular, Work Life focuses on broken relationships in those areas as it relates to the workplace.

Why Ally? Relationships. At Advance Memphis, we are privileged to see so many people truly experience the life-changing power of Jesus Christ while having their dignity restored and gaining hope and vision for their futures. Many of these same graduates, just like you and me, also become discouraged and feel defeated in the workplace and in their relationship with God. God knows we are all prone to discouragement and His solution to this problem: relationships. Meaningful friendships (especially between racial and socio-economic divides) foster gospel growth yet are often the missing ingredient. Our belief is that we all need Allies, or individuals committed to pursuing together, the kind of life transformation on I<sup>h</sup> found in Christ.

What does an Ally do?

- Prayer Our hope is that you would commit to praying for and with the participants and follow the Spirit's lead.
- Facilitate a weekly small group The Work Life class is a biblically based 6-week program which aims to empower adults to be economically self-sufficient by helping them move toward career and financial goals. Over the course of 6 weeks, participants discuss in small groups ways the class material can be applied to their life. Allies facilitate the group discussions while building relationships with the 2 to 4 male or female participants in the group. Advance Memphis provides material which the Volunteer Coordinator will email you prior to your small group to help guide the discussions each week. Typically, the questions do not require preparation.
- Ally commitment is one hour per week for 6 weeks These small groups occur on Wednesdays at 11 am and last about an hour each. The commitment after graduation is to attempt to walk in relationship with the graduates from your group for 6 months or longer. We understand that it is impossible to force meaningful friendships, and this is a more challenging process than we sometimes expect. However, the fruit from such a relationship is extremely rewarding.
- Graduation Please plan to attend the Work Life Graduation if you are available. The ceremony will be on the last Friday of the Work Life class at 10:30, and will take place at our warehouse on 575 Suzette St.
- Post-graduation The hope is that through Ally small groups, long-term relationships will develop over time. We encourage Allies to try to stay in touch with their small groups.

Required Skills and Attributes:

- A Christian who believes God's word is truth and lives it out in every area of his/her life.
- A personal commitment to God's kingdom work specifically for the economically, educationally, and spiritually poor.
- A commitment to racial and socio-economic reconciliation at a personal level, and a willingness to foster a relationship that goes beyond stereotypes and challenges your own perspectives.
- NO special financial knowledge is necessary beyond experience managing one's own finances and a commitment to join in the conversation personally as we together seek to pursue Jesus' kingdom with our money.
- A recognition of the poor as individuals made in the image of God.
- A willingness to fully participate in the classroom activities alongside of the participant.
- The attainment of a High School or GED diploma.
- A commitment to a local church body.
- A willingness to let relationships with participants change and impact your life.
